

DANAHER ANNOUNCES PASSING OF FORMER PRESIDENT & CEO, GEORGE M. SHERMAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Danaher Corporation (NYSE: DHR) announced that George M. Sherman, the Company's President & Chief Executive Officer during the years 1990-2001, died earlier this week after an illness.

Steven M. Rales, Danaher Chairman of the Board, commented: "All of us at Danaher are saddened by George's passing. We extend our deepest condolences to his beloved wife, Betsy, and their entire family."

Mr. Rales continued: "George enjoyed an illustrious career at Danaher. His legacy is broad, and he left an indelible imprint across the entire organization, which he led during an extraordinary time of growth and change. During his 11-year tenure, Company sales increased five-fold and market capitalization grew more than 20-times. George led the transformation of Danaher's portfolio, principally through acquisitions, from a mix of fragmented businesses to strategically focused platforms. He was instrumental in establishing Danaher as a global corporation with leading market positions, while also hiring and developing exceptional leaders. Under George's guidance, the Danaher Business System became the cultural cornerstone of Danaher, evolving from a set of lean manufacturing principles to the Company's underlying operating philosophy."

Mr. Rales concluded: "We shall remain grateful for George's influence during his tenure and beyond."
